SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith's cabinet rejected Monday night Britain's shipboard agreement on the 13-month-old independence crisis. Smith told a crowd waiting outside his office at 8 p.m.: "The light goes on." Smith said he accepted Prime Minister Harold Wilson's proposed constitution but was not willing to accept Wilson's terms for ending the rebellion and a return to what he called legality. These terms apparently included giving power to the British governor, Sir Humphrey Gibbs, over police and armed forces and the power to appoint ministers. The Wilson terms also included a demand that five members of the government should come from outside Smith's ruling Rhodesian Front Party and that member must include two Africans.

Investigation Continues In Jewelry Case

DUHL—Investigation into one of the largest jewelry store burglaries in the history of Twin Falls County was continuing Monday morning. Buhl Police, Twin Falls County Sheriff's officers, and Twin Falls Police are investigating the Friday night burglary of Gwin's Jewelry Store, Buhl, said no arrests have been made. Several thousand dollars worth of jewelry were reported taken.

No link has been made between the burglary and the Utah prison escapees arrested in Twin Falls Saturday, officers said. Even more articles than had been reported by Buhl Police officers were reported missing at Gwin's Jewelry Store, according to Chief of Police Charles Surbark.

The total loss in the robbery, estimated in the thousands, still has not been determined but a still greater loss was anticipated when police officers discovered further sets of engagement rings and wedding rings missing. The break-in, which occurred when intruders used a vehicle to break the glass out of a back door to gain entrance, was discovered by officers at 5:15 a.m. Saturday. Previously reported taken in the break-in were 14 diamond and sapphire wedding bands, 36 plain or engraved wedding bands, one sapphire with diamond ring, a diamond pendant and 23 dome rings. New tabulations report more wedding ring sets missing, although no exact total has yet been determined.

Also missing were eight brite rings, two other rings, a diamond watch, two transistor radios, two strands of pearls valued at $100 each, and two Masonic rings with ruby settings. Fifteen watches were reported missing including 11 watches belonging to customers. Officers said the majority of the watches were taken at more than $50 and many would be higher. A ruby pin belonging to a customer also was taken.

Canadian Couple Survives 11 Days After Plane Crashes On Mountain

COLVILLE, Wash. (AP) — A car stuck in the snow led to the rescue of a Canadian couple who survived 11 days after their plane crashed on a northeastern Washington peak. Roy Brown, 35, of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, and his wife, Betty, 32, were reported in good condition today at Mt. Carmel Hospital here. Mr. and Mrs. Brown, the parents of six children, had been the object of a wide search in Canada and northeastern Washington since their 300-hour engine plane vanished Nov. 24. They were flying to Vancouver, B.C., to join relatives at the Grey Cup Canadian championship professional football game Nov. 26. There was no sign of them until late Sunday afternoon when Ron Noble of Colville heard a cry for help as he was trying to dig his car out of the snow. A few minutes later Mrs. Brown and her husband, who had been following her down a logging road, reached the high plane. They were reported in good condition today at Mt. Carmel Hospital here. # Counsels Debate How Georgia Will Select Its Next Governor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court justices peppered opposing counsels with questions today during oral arguments on how Georgia will select its next governor. At issue is the far-reaching constitutional question whether the state legislature may select the governor since neither Republican Howard Callaway nor Democrat Lester G. Maddox won a majority in the Nov. 8 election. First up in oral arguments was Harold N. Hill Jr., assistant attorney general of Georgia. He argued that the state legislature must constitutionally choose between the two men. "If his were a patent infringement case, our side would be bound to lose," Hill said. But he said his side should win because the provision in the Georgia Constitution providing for election by the legislature is patterned after "one of the most wonderful instruments ever struck off by the brain and hand of man." He referred to the U.S. Constitution, which provides that the House chooses a president in case nobody obtains a majority of the electoral vote. Justice William O. Douglas asked to know whether the Georgia Constitution, which provides for election by the legislature, is patterned after "one of the most wonderful instruments ever struck off by the brain and hand of man." # Ike To Have Gall Bladder Operation

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, 67, will enter Walter Reed Hospital this week for surgery to remove his gall bladder, Eisenhower's office announced today. The five-star general will enter the hospital Thursday, although the exact day or time of the operation was not given. Eisenhower's office issued this statement: "The doctors have informed Gen. Eisenhower that he must have his gall bladder removed soon. He plans to enter Walter Reed General Hospital Thursday, Dec. 8, and plans to leave for Palm Desert, Calif., right after the turn of the year. Eisenhower checked in at Walter Reed for an overnight physical examination about 10 days ago. It is assumed that he received the advice of doctors for the gall-bladder removal at that time. Eisenhower expects to keep appointments Tuesday evening and Wednesday in New York City for a football Hall of Fame dinner, and a luncheon for a business group. # Back In Classes

CHICAGO (AP) — Striking teachers have voted to return to their classrooms at the city's eight junior colleges. The action was announced Sunday night after the school board promised to recognize their union. Some 300 members of Local 1600, American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, approved the proposed settlement by acclamation when told the board would recognize the union as a collective bargaining agent for teachers.

High Winds Lash T.F. Area, Damage Will Exceed $3,000

High winds, rain and snow lashed through Magic Valley early Monday morning leaving damages estimated to exceed $3,000 in Twin Falls area. Twin Falls appeared to be the hardest hit by the storm which hit its peak between midnight and 3 a.m., according to Idaho Power officials. Trees and limbs across power lines caused an outage for about 35 minutes early Monday, and Idaho Power crews

Gale-Driven Rains Lash Northwest

By The Associated Press
Gale-driven rains lashed most of the Pacific Northwest today and freezing drizzle gave an icy coat to many Midwest highways. Heavy snow in the Cascade Mountains closed a secondary highway linking west and east Oregon and forced cancellation of a ski race on Mount Hood. Also in Oregon the U.S. Coast Guard reported winds of more than 120 miles per hour early Sunday. Rains brought the Colquillo River in southern Oregon to flood stage. No danger to cities was expected. Interstate 5, the main north-south Oregon highway was blocked in its southbound lanes Sunday when trucks jackknifed in heavy snow. Traffic moved slowly through rain, sleet and drizzle in much of the upper Midwest. Hazardous-driving warnings were posted in eastern Michigan, much of Michigan and northeastern Indiana. A band of fog added to the traffic woes from Oklahoma and northwest Texas to Iowa and Illinois. An electric power failure in Upstate New York cut off lights and heating units in 260 homes in Salamanca, south of Buffalo. The eight-hour blackout took place in one of the coldest periods in years.

Chain Of Slayings Turns Cincinnati Into City Of Fear

By JUAN KANGILSKI
CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — One year ago a horrified janitor found a scientist's wife strangled in the basement of an apartment. That discovery opened a chain of killings which turned Cincinnati into a city of fear.

The body of Emogene Harrington, 56, was found Dec. 2, 1965, on the floor of a restroom. She had been raped and strangled — the first of five Cincinnati women to be slain in a year by what police believe to be the same demented man.

Cincinnati has not been the same since.

It has become a city where women fear to answer the door at night. It is the city where Halloween trick-and-treating was shifted to Sunday afternoon both to save the frayed nerves of citizens and to protect the little spooks from possible harm.

Mrs. Mao Gets Buildup For Bigger Things

By JOHN RODERICK
TOKYO (AP) — Mrs. Mao Tse-tung is being given such a big political buildup that it suggests she is destined for bigger things after Mao dies.

The New China News Agency reported today that Mao's wife, Chiang Ching, gave her first major political address on Nov. 28 to 20,000 art and literary workers in Peking. Though Premier Chou En-lai and cultural purge chief Chen Po-ta also spoke, it was plain that she was the center of attention.

Her speech revealed that she has been involved in the politics of the cultural revolution only a few years, and that she had encountered setbacks and rebuffs from those engaged in the theater. The No. 1 Peking Opera Company — one of those which fought back — and several other top music and ballet groups have been taken over by the army, presumably at her instigation.

Chiang Ching was named cultural adviser to the army. She now has a foot in the army and the other in the party central committee. She is first deputy chairman of the party's nationwide cultural purge committee.

As army adviser, she will report directly to Defense Minister Lin Biao, Mao's chief prop and leader of the hard-line wing of the party. Should Mao die, his widow should prove a considerable ally for Lin in his struggle to retain power in Mao's name.

Are We Failing?

A little less than two years remain before now and the next presidential election.

In that time, the war in Viet Nam must be successfully concluded or be unmistakably close to a conclusion, or President Johnson will be in very serious trouble with both the people and with his party.

So far, criticism that we are pulling out military punches in Viet Nam and urging that we go all out in the war have come from outside the administration and outside the Democratic party.

Richard Nixon is perhaps the most frequent and familiar exponent of the hit 'em hard school. There are others. Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, USAF (ret.), has suggested that "more thought and effort should be devoted toward an early termination of the conflict through increased use of our vastly superior power."

As the 1968 deadline approaches, it seems inevitable that the President will be increasingly tempted to cut the Gordian knot with the terrible swift sword of American military power. It is not clear that this is the best way to win the war. It is now just how this is to be done.

Amid the flow of battle dispatches from Viet Nam, persistent reports continue to affirm that on the nonmilitary front, nothing much has changed. Though the Viet Cong two years ago lost their bid to take over the country entirely, they still virtually control on the level that counts—the village level.

Why is it we have been unable to make South Viet Nam safe for democracy? The Chinese Communists were able to wipe out centuries-entrenched corruption, poverty, famine, prostitution and other social ills that defiled Chiang Kai-shek's 20 years. Similarly, the regime in North Viet Nam seems solid, popular and in no danger of collapse.

In South Viet Nam, however, "business" goes on much as it did under the mandarins and the French. An alarming percentage of our aid is siphoned off into private pockets and it does not actually go to strengthen the government. It takes time to win the allegiance of the people to the government in Saigon.

What do the Communists have that we haven't got?

The easy answer is, that they are ruthless, fanatic, single-minded. But the difference in ruthlessness between executing wage cheats and napalming may understandably be lost on the bewildered, bystander peasant.

If, as we believe, democracy is a superior way of life to communism, there is clearly something inferior in the way we are going about proving it. "Increased use of our vastly superior power" is not going to change this one whit.

NEWS FOR THE MAN

Here's an item of possible interest to men.

By 1970, half of all the drivers in the United States will be women!

Before you take to the hills, gentlemen, remember that there already are 39 million women behind the wheel, against—and the word is used purely by coincidence—38 million male drivers.

The number of women drivers has doubled since 1952, due to more suburbs, more two-car families, more unmarried career women and more people in the car. As you might expect, this boom in distant driving has not gone unnoticed by the people who make and service automobiles.

Auto manufacturers are so convinced the Little Woman often casts the deciding vote in choosing the family car that they are paying closer and closer attention to her preferences. They are styling, and are offering such lady-lures as suspended accelerator pedals (to meet the high heel problem), facial tissue dispensers and "his" and "her" ashtrays.

And service stations are recognizing that premium restrooms are just as important to the ladies as miracle additives to the gasoline are to the men. So fancy powder rooms are replacing bleak cubicles.

Traffic authorities seem to agree that women are driving more safely and more expertly day by day. And most men are accepting the fact that the woman driver is here to stay, even if not in one spot.

Probably will always remain, however, the occasional cynic who insists that when a woman sticks out her hand in traffic to give a signal, it means only one thing: that the window is down.

(That's only a quote, ladies, and does NOT necessarily reflect the views of this newspaper.)

BY ANDREW TULLY
WASHINGTON — To Washington's professional foreign policy thinkers, the chief significance of Moscow's announcement that it gave Mao Tse-tung the "ack" is the increased pressure it exerts on the North Viet Nam regime of Ho Chi Minh. If the pressure should prove successful, the shadows of morning the Viet Nam war from the battlefield to the peace table would be immensely improved.

To be sure, as the recent Pravda editorial made clear, Andrew Tully the Soviets are seeking a united political front among Communists against the Peking Interlopers. But they also have moved closer to the position of insisting that North Viet Nam choose between Red China and the Soviet Union in the conduct of its foreign relations—including the war in the South. And since Moscow had indicated that it is in favor of negotiating a peace, developments are being watched closely and eagerly in Washington.

For its own communist purposes, Moscow is now on a peace kick. The Soviets are still enjoying the flush of triumph over their successful mediation of the India-Pakistan war at Tashkent. They want to consolidate their status as the peace party, largely because their Eastern European satellites are terrified at the thought of the major confrontation destroying their newly emerging economies. They want to show the satellites that while they seek peace—and communist economic expansion—Peking and its adventurers seek only to keep the world in a business-wrecking turmoil.

A POLITICAL STRADDLE—This poses a serious and perhaps dangerous problem for Hanoi. Its position is roughly parallel to that of the American politician who needs both the votes of the West and the support of the East. Somehow, he must continue to please both sides without committing himself to either.

Especially now, when the war is proving far more costly than was expected, Hanoi is spending on both Moscow and Peking for money and military aid. It claims it is not getting enough help from either side, and thus has adopted the position of neutrality. But China against each other while simultaneously showing its gratitude in equal amounts to both countries.

For example, North Viet Nam's Premier Pham Van Dong recently hailed aid from China as "immense and valuable." A few days later, he dutifully thanked Moscow for its grant and valuable military aid in the communist camp. It is perhaps the only authentic "neutral."

WHOSE BABY IS HOT?—Even Hanoi's neutrality is a gain for the Soviet Union. Up until four years ago, North Viet Nam was a slavish and unashamed satellite of Peking. Immediately after the 1954 Geneva Conference, the communist regime adopted Red China as a kind of political godfather, aping Peking's economic and agricultural reforms and proposing a similar shift on the party's bureaucracy. It was a shift since a policy of permitting Moscow to contribute to its general welfare is comparable to Tito's turn of mind.

This shift began in 1952, when the North Vietnamese refused to join China in denouncing Premier Khrushchev for retreating during the Sino-Soviet dispute. Instead, they sided with Peking's claims that Moscow was not contributing enough to its war effort and that the Russians are in "collusion" with Washington. Hanoi has been telling the world that it is "revisiting" from Peking—on Red China's attacks on "revisionism" in Russia.

America has a big stake in this dispute. It means the difference between war and peace. As of now, Washington is banking on the Soviet Union's superior standing in the world community. The United States is banking on the interest lies with the communist imperialism of the West, rather than that of the East. Moscow and Peking are both claiming to be the more respectable opinion simply because it is more respectable than Peking, and this will be of utmost importance when and if peace negotiations get underway.

Views Of Others

TREND GROWING
The cooperative movement is spreading fast in Venezuela. Only three cooperatives were in business in 1959. Two years ago, the number had gone up to 51, while today, there are 221. Most of the cooperatives are in the fields of education and community development.

The others are: consumers, 28; transportation, 33; farming, 29; production, 20; housing, 10; recreation, 2; and one each in education and community development.

Their combined capital is 75 million bolivars ($16.5 million), and the amount of their operations, 144 million bolivars by the end of 1963. The largest cooperative is the largest in the world, 25 million bolivars, and next come the savings and loans cooperatives with 20 million bolivars each. Six cooperative federations have been established.

Until recently, cooperatives operated under a law passed by the Venezuelan Congress in 1942. So many new cooperatives have been created, however, and so numerous are their ramifications, that the old law is now inadequate to meet all situations, and the Congress replaced it with new legislation last August to regulate the strong trend toward cooperativism—Venezuela Up-To-Date.

MUST HAVE BEEN HONEST

If you have been puzzled by a certain indefinable silence since election day, we think we've figured out what it was. Normally the big Democratic Party has been silent since election day, automatically by Republican outcries against the crookedness of the election machinery. But in this case, and nobody is shouting "foul!" Yet the election machinery for this as for other elections was in the hands of the same allegedly corrupt machines which have been the subject of stealing the votes for the Democrats. Can it be that Chicago's Mayor Daley and other urban politicians are again being investigated for the honesty of any election determined by who wins 17-21, Louis Post-Dispatch.

WIRE LINKUP FOR TV

Good and welcome news is that the National Educational Television-network's announced plan to enter next year under linkage of 75 stations by cable has been approved by the Federal Communications Commission. The plan is the initial feature of the projected hearings in the Senate on the future of educational television, N.E.T. will thus be enhancing its position as the most important of its offerings and incidentally demonstrating what it could do with the aid of subsidy from the federal government. The plan was announced by the Ford Foundation, St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The cooperative movement is spreading fast in Venezuela. Only three cooperatives were in business in 1959. Two years ago, the number had gone up to 51, while today, there are 221. Most of the cooperatives are in the fields of education and community development.

The others are: consumers, 28; transportation, 33; farming, 29; production, 20; housing, 10; recreation, 2; and one each in education and community development.

Their combined capital is 75 million bolivars ($16.5 million), and the amount of their operations, 144 million bolivars by the end of 1963. The largest cooperative is the largest in the world, 25 million bolivars, and next come the savings and loans cooperatives with 20 million bolivars each. Six cooperative federations have been established.

Until recently, cooperatives operated under a law passed by the Venezuelan Congress in 1942. So many new cooperatives have been created, however, and so numerous are their ramifications, that the old law is now inadequate to meet all situations, and the Congress replaced it with new legislation last August to regulate the strong trend toward cooperativism—Venezuela Up-To-Date.

MUST HAVE BEEN HONEST

If you have been puzzled by a certain indefinable silence since election day, we think we've figured out what it was. Normally the big Democratic Party has been silent since election day, automatically by Republican outcries against the crookedness of the election machinery. But in this case, and nobody is shouting "foul!" Yet the election machinery for this as for other elections was in the hands of the same allegedly corrupt machines which have been the subject of stealing the votes for the Democrats. Can it be that Chicago's Mayor Daley and other urban politicians are again being investigated for the honesty of any election determined by who wins 17-21, Louis Post-Dispatch.

WIRE LINKUP FOR TV

Good and welcome news is that the National Educational Television-network's announced plan to enter next year under linkage of 75 stations by cable has been approved by the Federal Communications Commission. The plan is the initial feature of the projected hearings in the Senate on the future of educational television, N.E.T. will thus be enhancing its position as the most important of its offerings and incidentally demonstrating what it could do with the aid of subsidy from the federal government. The plan was announced by the Ford Foundation, St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Who says American women demand more than their grandmothers did? Modern styles prove that they are satisfied with less.—Griffin (C.) Daily News.

WASHINGTON — To Washington's professional foreign policy thinkers, the chief significance of Moscow's announcement that it gave Mao Tse-tung the "ack" is the increased pressure it exerts on the North Viet Nam regime of Ho Chi Minh. If the pressure should prove successful, the shadows of morning the Viet Nam war from the battlefield to the peace table would be immensely improved.

To be sure, as the recent Pravda editorial made clear, Andrew Tully the Soviets are seeking a united political front among Communists against the Peking Interlopers. But they also have moved closer to the position of insisting that North Viet Nam choose between Red China and the Soviet Union in the conduct of its foreign relations—including the war in the South. And since Moscow had indicated that it is in favor of negotiating a peace, developments are being watched closely and eagerly in Washington.

For its own communist purposes, Moscow is now on a peace kick. The Soviets are still enjoying the flush of triumph over their successful mediation of the India-Pakistan war at Tashkent. They want to consolidate their status as the peace party, largely because their Eastern European satellites are terrified at the thought of the major confrontation destroying their newly emerging economies. They want to show the satellites that while they seek peace—and communist economic expansion—Peking and its adventurers seek only to keep the world in a business-wrecking turmoil.

A POLITICAL STRADDLE—This poses a serious and perhaps dangerous problem for Hanoi. Its position is roughly parallel to that of the American politician who needs both the votes of the West and the support of the East. Somehow, he must continue to please both sides without committing himself to either.

Especially now, when the war is proving far more costly than was expected, Hanoi is spending on both Moscow and Peking for money and military aid. It claims it is not getting enough help from either side, and thus has adopted the position of neutrality. But China against each other while simultaneously showing its gratitude in equal amounts to both countries.

For example, North Viet Nam's Premier Pham Van Dong recently hailed aid from China as "immense and valuable." A few days later, he dutifully thanked Moscow for its grant and valuable military aid in the communist camp. It is perhaps the only authentic "neutral."

WHOSE BABY IS HOT?—Even Hanoi's neutrality is a gain for the Soviet Union. Up until four years ago, North Viet Nam was a slavish and unashamed satellite of Peking. Immediately after the 1954 Geneva Conference, the communist regime adopted Red China as a kind of political godfather, aping Peking's economic and agricultural reforms and proposing a similar shift on the party's bureaucracy. It was a shift since a policy of permitting Moscow to contribute to its general welfare is comparable to Tito's turn of mind.

This shift began in 1952, when the North Vietnamese refused to join China in denouncing Premier Khrushchev for retreating during the Sino-Soviet dispute. Instead, they sided with Peking's claims that Moscow was not contributing enough to its war effort and that the Russians are in "collusion" with Washington. Hanoi has been telling the world that it is "revisiting" from Peking—on Red China's attacks on "revisionism" in Russia.

America has a big stake in this dispute. It means the difference between war and peace. As of now, Washington is banking on the Soviet Union's superior standing in the world community. The United States is banking on the interest lies with the communist imperialism of the West, rather than that of the East. Moscow and Peking are both claiming to be the more respectable opinion simply because it is more respectable than Peking, and this will be of utmost importance when and if peace negotiations get underway.

Sick Child

DOWNTOWN, Pa.—(AP)—Santa Claus was the only one able to bring a smile from a 5-year-old Lance Cummings on Sunday as relatives and friends gathered at "Just in Case" Christmas party for the youngster stricken with incurable cancer.

Doctors at the Chester County Hospital in nearby West Chester couldn't promise the boy would live through Christmas, so they gave permission for him to go home for a couple of days and celebrate the holiday early.

Bewildered by a large group of people at the home of family friends, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wagner in nearby Narvon, R.D. 2, Lance managed his first smile of the day for "Santa Claus," as the jolly old man bounced through the door bringing gifts.

Lance quickly told his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cummings, he knew why "Santa Claus" was paying him the special visit: "I've been good and the other children have been bad."

From his wheelchair, Lance—whose red hair is falling out and what's left is turning gray—fingered Santa's flowing white beard and almost refused the act by giving it a gentle yank. Moving aside in readiness to hear, the four Santa figures continued handing presents to the youngster, wracked with stomach cancer.

Obviously weakened from all the confusion, Lance murmured to his mother that she should unwrap the presents—for him. Closely watching the program with each gift, his lip was quickly filled with toy trucks, cars, airplanes, books and other gifts.

Many children, including his five brothers and sisters, gathered around the boy, and the youngster proudly displayed each item.

Pleased with the huge turnout, Mr. Cummings said: "When you have trouble, you can always tell who your friends are. And we discovered we certainly have a lot of them."

Sunday was Lance's second trip home since he was hospitalized last Nov. 10, when he came home for six hours for a Thanksgiving dinner.

Utah State Center Will Be Dedicated

LOGAN, Utah (AP)—A performance by the Mormon Tabernacle Choir and three speeches will mark dedication Wednesday and Thursday of Utah State University's Center for the Study of the Causes of War and Conditions of Peace.

The choir will perform at 8 p.m. in George Nelson Field House.

Also included in the program will be a procession of university faculty and administrators, dressed in academic gowns, and students—representing about 30 countries and carrying their national flags.

A narrative, "Which Path for Us?" written by Dr. Carlton F. Culmsee, will be read. Prayers will be given by the Most Rev. Joseph Lennox Federal, bishop of the Salt Lake Catholic Diocese, and by Elder Alma Stone, assistant to the Council of the Twelve, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and chairman of the USU Board of Trustees.

Dedication activities will continue Thursday with speeches by Jack Vaughn, director of the Peace Corps; Alexander Keren-ski, premier of the Russian provisional government in 1917; and Herman Kahn, director of the Hudson Institute.

USU President Daryl Chase announced establishment of the center last June.

Slide Buries 3

BRANCON, Texas (AP)—Three Italian skiers were buried by an avalanche Sunday near the village of Montgenèvre. Three rescue teams rushed to the scene, but darkness halted attempts to find the trio.

The avalanche occurred in the valley of Rhodan, between Châvet and Châberton, at an altitude of 8,500 feet.

See Santa EVERY NIGHT

7 to 9 Mon. thru Sat.

167 Chinchillas Are Judged During State Open Field Day

More than 100 Idaho chinchilla ranchers and breeders showed off the best of their animals in Twin Falls Sunday during the first open field day ever held in Idaho. The informal show was held at the YH-YWCA and featured 167 entries.

The field day was held to provide a "practice run" for ranchers interested in participating in regular, sanctioned shows, according to Mrs. Cecil Johnston, Buhl, one of the fanciers represented at the field day.

The animals were judged by Ken Sadler and Jim Smith, both Nampa, largely on the basis of the condition of their fur and general conformation to standard set up by the Chinchilla Breeders Association. Twenty-seven chinchilla ranches throughout Idaho were represented at the event.

Grand show champion was a dark animal bred by Duane Schwilow, Nampa. Mr. Schwilow also took home ribbons for champion male, champion female, dark color champion male, reserve medium dark color female, reserve medium dark color male and reserve medium light color champion male awards.

The Lucky Trio Ranch, owned by Cecil Johnston, Buhl, took home ribbons for reserve medium color champion female, medium light color champion male and female and reserve medium light color champion male awards.

RUPERT—Kenneth Bell, who was in charge of the program at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon last week at the Hiram's Cafe, said most of the problems in the county stem from lack of communication; although this is an age of marvelous communications facilities.

In an effort toward better communication, the county commissioners and auditor and tax assessor, together with representatives from farm organizations, the Chamber of Commerce and other interested people met last week with State Rep. Oscar Aratino and Sen. Mary Brooks to suggest legislation and to hear the representatives' views on items of interest to Minidoka County.

County Clerk August Bethke reported on the meeting, stating that auditors from throughout the state have made several recommendations for reforms in county government.

Among areas needing study he included election laws, which, he said, "need to be examined carefully." There are many inequities, he stated. He said the auditors have recommended one of their number be included on any committee for reformation in this area, as they are the ones who administer such laws.

Specific suggestions a recent meeting of state auditors made included removal of the present requirement to record all names receiving less than five votes in an election.

They also recommended a person whose name or whose spouse's name appears on an election ballot not be allowed to serve as election judges or clerks.

Claude Bowman, county assessor, discussed Senate Bill 246 which requires that valuation of real and personal property taxes be brought up to 20 per cent of full cash value over a four year period, and utilities are required to bring this figure to 40 per cent.

Bowman pointed out that a protective clause has been written into the bill, that counties who set up their budgets on the old valuation together with new property, would not levy the full mill levy with new valuation.

As an example, he said, that the 1964 county levy for Minidoka County was 92.25 mills, and to compensate for the increased evaluation, the 1965 figure was down to 85.88 mills. The 1966 figure will reduce even more to 77.70 mills, he said.

The assessor also pointed out that 500 bills went before the legislature last year, and he suggested that when copies of proposed legislation reach the chamber office this year, they be given to the appropriate chamber committees for study and report to the membership.

He further urged that the chamber members keep in touch with legislators and congressional committees while the legislature is in session, and work actively for defeat or passage of various bills.

Del Hollinger, Chamber president, read a letter from the North Side Communities regarding the proposed Magic Valley Chamber of Commerce organizational meeting set for 2 p.m. Wednesday at Jerome. Hollinger urged other chamber members to attend. Hollinger also read a letter from the United States Department of Commerce, informing him that employment in Minidoka County was up 13 per cent in March, 1966, over March, 1965. The county was placed 120th among the 44 counties for employment.

Bob Caldwell, chairman, reported on plans for the Christmas lighting contest, with details to be given Wednesday.

Joint Church Service Plan Is Criticized

By GODEFREY ANDERSON
LONDON (AP)—The death of Westminster Abbey, England's coronation shrine, has brought a storm on its head because the plan to hold a joint service for all religions there on Human Rights Day, Saturday.

Christians, Jews, Moslems, Hindus and Buddhists will be represented at the final major event of the abbey's year-long commemoration of its consecration 900 years ago.

Much of the hour's service will be passed in silent prayer but at intervals a representative of one of the faiths will read a passage. There will be no spoken prayers, no music, only readings, meditation and silence.

Many Anglican churchmen are not happy about the invitation to men of all faiths to worship in the abbey.

The Westminster Abbey was held recently in St. Martin-in-the-Fields in Trafalgar Square. The lower half of England, passed a resolution condemning such practices.

But Dean E. Abbott is going ahead with plans for the service which the abbey clergy approved more than a year ago.

Because of the abbey's situation, "a royal peculiar," the dean is responsible only to Queen Elizabeth II and not to the Archbishop of Canterbury, primate of the church.

The Church Times, an Anglican publication, has protested: "The Westminster plan is a decision which must be deplored as certain to give rise to widespread disquiet and dismay in the Church."

Romney Tells Martin To Cancel Trip

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Gov. George Romney today told Michigan's Republican National Committee member John Martin to cancel a trip to New Hampshire where Martin was to confer with GOP leaders about Romney's running in the 1968 presidential primary there.

"He's canceled it," Romney said when asked his reaction to Martin's comment last week that he would visit New Hampshire later this month.

"It created the impression that I had encouraged him to make the trip and that was not the case," Romney said.

Martin has been national committee member from Michigan since 1957.

Questioned again regarding his possible candidacy for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination, Romney told a news conference:

"What I said before was that I intended to take a long, hard look at the question. I haven't. What I've said in effect is that I'm something I intend to explore. But I have not made a decision and I am not a candidate."

"That's my private position and that's my public position, and I haven't indicated any differently to anybody," Romney added.

Foreign Auto Makers Try Recalling

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate subcommittee reports that foreign auto makers attempted to recall 238,142 cars imported into the United States in January and February to correct fire-related defects.

But Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the subcommittee on executive organization, said Sunday night "the manufacturers and their dealers were able to reach, inspect and correct where necessary, 113,680 cars" or slightly less than 50 per cent.

Ribicoff added that because of procedures used "we have no confidence that all cars containing defects were the subject of recall campaigns."

At the same time, he added not all of the cars recalled were shown to have defects. He said $18 million autos had been imported during a six-year period through last Aug. 31.

2-Market Chains Drop Games

By SALLY RYAN
NEW YORK (AP)—After protests from picketing housewives because the chains had decided to drop promotional games, some others indicate they may follow suit when their current promotions end, an Associated Press survey showed.

In Kansas City, games may be on the way out altogether. Three supermarket groups there have dropped games in which customers win prizes.

Grocery Stores Inc., the nation's second-largest food store operation, announced this week it would get out of the business in January—although its Bonus Bingo was credited for half of the chain's 1966 sales increase.

"They've run their course," said Robert A. Magowan, Safeway spokesman. "We have no confidence that all cars containing defects were the subject of recall campaigns."

State, Local Jobs Growing Across Nation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department reported Sunday night that state and local government jobs comprise the fastest-growing area of employment in the nation.

The increase in the past five years has been 31 per cent, mostly to meet demands for improved education and health services, said the department's new report on employment.

The report, covering the years 1959 to 1964, says the growth in service industries is second highest, up 25 per cent since 1959. This includes hotels, restaurants, barber and beauty shops, laundries, auto and appliance repairs, entertainment, medical and health services and numerous others.

The report shows also the nation's gradual shift from an agricultural to an industrial economy over the past 30 years, with farms dropping from the biggest employer at 22 per cent of the work force in 1936 to one of the smallest now at 5 per cent.

Agricultural employment, as high as 10 million in 1936, is now down to about four million and has been surpassed in employment totals by manufacturing with 18 million, wholesale-retail trade 13 million, federal-state-local government at 11 million, service industries with 8.8 million and transportation 4.2 million.

The report says also that in 1963 factory employees worked 51 hours a week to earn an average of $3.74 compared with today's $13 for a 41-hour week.

Charles—who came of royal age on his 18th birthday Nov. 14—took over from Philip as potential prince-regent. Should Queen Elizabeth II die or abdicate Charles will become king.

Viet Nam's French-Built Roads Are Crumbling

By KENNETH L. WHITING
MY THO, South Viet Nam

(AP) — South Viet Nam's French-built roads are showing signs of crumbling under wartime traffic.

While more military equipment is being airlifted than in any war in history, the highways remain vital economic lifelines.

Most of the roads were constructed by the French in the 1920s and 1930s.

They were not built for either the volume of traffic or the weight of individual vehicles rolling over them now. Convoys of dump trucks, 6X6 Army vehicles and heavily laden fuel tankers rumble along thoroughfares designed for much lighter loads and much slower speeds.

Main streets in Saigon are being worn by big American trucks carrying supplies from the riverport to storage depots outside town. Capital streets are also potholed from excavations needed to lay new utility lines to serve the mushrooming population.

One of the worst problems is Route 4. It connects Saigon and My Tho and other points in the fertile Mekong River delta where much of the capital's food is grown.

Heavy seasonal rains eroded parts of this road, which is a vital government link by day but mostly controlled by the Viet Cong at night.

The Viet Cong have been able to curtail supplies of certain foods in Saigon for brief periods by blowing up bridges on this route.

Interruption of traffic on Route 4 is immediately reflected in the price of food at Saigon's central market. The cost of fresh farm produce climbs sharply each time the road is blocked, whether by flooding or Viet Cong sabotage.

Route 20 from Saigon to Da Lat, an important vegetable growing area, has been blocked repeatedly.

The same is true of Highway 19, connecting the coastal city of Qui Nhon and Pleiku, over which many tons of American military goods have been moving for months.

Economists in Saigon fear that deteriorating highways are a major obstacle to stability.

Vietnamese officials estimate that 35 per cent of the roads are open compared with 26 per cent two weeks ago. The difference was made in repairing roads damaged by delta floods and Viet Cong bombs.

These officials regard 35 per cent as a high figure. They point out that highways have not been 100 per cent open "since about 1946."

Sen. Douglas Will Resume Academic Life

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., who taught economics at the University of Chicago before his 18-year career in the Senate, will resume the academic life, it was announced today.

The New School for Social Research said Douglas had accepted an appointment to teach economics in the school's graduate faculty of political and social sciences. Douglas, 74, lost his Senate seat last month to Republican Charles H. Percy. He will take over his new duties during the semester beginning Jan. 30, President John Everett of the school announced.

Douglas started teaching at the University of Illinois in 1916, and later taught at Reed College in Oregon and the University of Washington.

He went to the University of Chicago in 1920, and was a full professor there from 1925 until his election to the Senate in 1948.

He is the author or coauthor of 14 books on economics, labor and government.

The New School for Social Research was founded in 1919 to provide the nation's "first university for adults." Its founders include historian James Beard and economist Alvin Johnson, who was its first president.

Most Idaho Legislators Believe Election Laws Should Be Revised

BOISE (AP) — More than half the Idaho legislators responding to an Associated Press poll believed the state's election laws should be revised by the 1967 Legislature.

But they are far from agreement as to what changes should be made.

About one-fifth of those saying there should be a change, proposed a return to the direct primary, eliminating the present state party assembly which now must endorse candidates for state and congressional office.

Twenty-three per cent said they think the campaign period should be shortened by holding the primary earlier in the year, probably in September. It is now early in August.

Several legislators suggested rewriting the election laws for purposes of clarity, even if no major changes are made.

Some proposed barring of independent candidates and others suggested elimination of the state assembly.

"We need, somehow, to restore party responsibility," said Rep. Aden Hyde, R-Idaho Falls. He said "too many candidates are now running as individuals and the popular ones get most of the campaign contributions."

Sen. Arthur Murphy, D-Mullan, suggested a shortening of the campaign period and revision of the endorsing procedure so that no more than two candidates could run for any one office in the primary.

Sen. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho Falls, suggested use of the open primary for nomination of candidates for United States senator, representatives in Congress and governor. Nominees for other state offices would be chosen at party conventions about 40 days before the primary. One of the approximately 15 per cent who voted against any change in the election laws was Rep. Edith Miller, Klein, R-Boise.

"The election laws," she said, "have been changed so often that I should prefer to give them a chance to operate as they are before making any additional changes."

HOUSTON (AP) — John Hadl's 10-yard pass to Jacques MacKinnon with 21 seconds left to play gave the San Diego Chargers a 28-22 American Football League victory over the Houston Oilers Sunday.

Hadl's last-minute salvation pass to MacKinnon and more scoring passes to Fred Cox and Lance Alworth and Gary Garrison were too much for the young Oilers' defense.

Businesses, States Cash In On Skiers

By SALLY RYAN
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Millions of ski bums and ski bums will ride up lifts and schuss down slopes from Maine to Hawaii this winter, scattering nearly $1 billion along the way.

Airlines, railroads, book clubs, cosmetic companies, car rental agencies and many states are cashing in on the ski boom. "It's becoming a big business," said Alva L. Eckert, Greyhound tour director, who organizes weekend ski trips from New York to Vermont.

"Our business was up 50 percent last year and it's up quite a bit this year. We have advance reservations for February already."

"In the last 10 years, the ski clothing business has quintupled," said Harold S. Hirsch, chairman of White Stag, the Portland, Ore., firm which claims to be the largest skiwear manufacturer in the world.

Ski Industries of America, a trade association, estimates that the nation's 2 million skiers who challenge the slopes every weekend and 1.5 million occasional skiers will spend $1 billion this year, up from $750 million last year.

That's for stretch pants and parkas, skis and poles, lift tickets, transportation, food and lodging.

Skiers will have to dig deeper in their pockets to pay for most of those things this season. Lift tickets generally are up 50 cents to $1, skis that cost $107 are up to $112 and top line ski boots from $100 to $115.

One reason is big construction and operating costs at the ski areas. Along with installing more lifts to handle the growing crowds, ski areas are turning to artificial snow machines to guarantee snow every weekend.

Eastern resorts don't want to go through another year like 1984, when there was little snow and few skiers.

Ski Industries estimates 1,200 ski areas will be in operation this winter, in 36 states including Hawaii.

The conviviality that goes with skiing has helped boost its popularity — and boost the rewards to those in the ski business.

Eckert, who loads ski buses at New York City's Port Authority Terminal every Friday night, finds it is quite a social occasion, with more women than men.

The women take the tours — the men drive up — and the girls hope to get a ride back," Eckert said. "We send more people up than we take home — only about 75 per cent come back with us."

THE JUNIOR REALM

with MARTHA LEE

Q. I have a problem of jealousy and it's a very severe one. Every honor that comes to me, I feel I should have it. I am not in her activity, makes me jealous until I have an almost constant headache. When boys date me, and then date other girls that also puts me in the stew and I don't know how to get out of it. You have helped me before with another problem and I am looking forward to your discussion of this one. You may be sure that I shall greatly appreciate it. Margaretha, 16.

Panelists: Linda Humble, high school, Mississippi; Catherine Hunt, college, Maine; Susan Kohler, high school, Pennsylvania; Ann Todd, college, Texas.

Jealousy is an emotion everybody experiences when their self-control is undeveloped or out of order. It begins when we feel sorry for ourselves. But, with high-powered self-control we need never feel sorry for ourselves and we can put the credit where it deserves to be put. Honors don't just come to people, they have to earn them.

Dates come and go and it seems to us that boys are more certain to keep circulating than girls usually are. Girls want to go steady because they are on the defensive side of dates. This, however, need not be a penalty, because girls should learn how to attract and make good dates in the last two sentences of your letter, which we eliminated from publication.

It is embarrassing for us to have to admit this weakness. You have it big. One thing you can do to develop your self-control to the point where you can reason with jealousy and make it come out as something refreshing. When jealousy depresses us, we look into the lives of the less fortunate people we know. It has a way of lifting us up to the level of reason.

When one of your friends is singled out for honors, remember that honors do not often just come to people, but that they are earned. In any event, congratulate her — and mean it. Do this with everybody you know who has been tagged. And when you see a mate who has dated some other chick, tell yourself, not him, that you hope he enjoyed it. If you tell him, he may mistake it for feminine sarcasm.

Should the girl's name come up, speak well of her. And keep busy. Do these things and you will be surprised what it will do to your jealousy virus. One of us took this cure and it

But not for long!

Actually, we're only closed for three days, December 6, 7 and 8. We're going back to school — to attend an intensive agronomic training session conducted by instructors holding doctor's degrees in fertilizer technology and soil fertility. This is how we keep up with the rapid changes occurring in fertilizer management. We're vitally interested in top yields and profit for you and want to continue to provide you with the most complete and modern fertilizer services for the coming year. So we're closing our Farm Service Centers in Paul and Hansen for those three days. We'll see you on December 9 — Better able to serve you. But if you should need us we're open in Filer. Call us collect. U.S.S. Farm Service Center, Filer. 208-326-4392.

Fish, Chips Is England's

National Dish

By EDDY GILMORE
LONDON (AP)—Fish and chips—roast beef and Yorkshire pudding—is the national dish of Old England.

More than that, it is also the most popular food in Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland. Britain's 15,000 fish and chip shops cook 1,000 tons of fish every working day. With this go 600,000 tons of potatoes annually. The cooks use 80,000 tons of oil and fats to fry them into what are called "french fries" in the United States.

Who eats fish and chips? Just about everyone from royalty to the rag and bone man. Fish and chips are unthinkable without salt and vinegar or lemon. They are just about as unthinkable wrapped in anything but old newspapers.

This wrapping soaks up excess vinegar and oil. It gives you something ample to wipe your fingers on, and it gives the fish fryer something to read when he is at work.

For years the National Federation of Fish Fryers has dispatched from its annual conference a telegram to the National Union of Journalists.

In the form of a fraternal greeting, the fryers explain: "Because our trade is wrapped in yours."

SOMETHING NEW has been added to Rupert's Christmas decorations this year with this saucy Santa Claus perched in the middle of the fountain in the city's square. The jolly giant lights up at night to provide added sparkle. A nativity scene is placed in the northeast corner of the square. (Times-News photo)

Useless Climb

ROME (AP)—Cesare Flavio, 8, made a cat-like climb to the school roof, hoping to slip down into class unnoticed because he was late. But once on top he couldn't get down or in. The school custodian climbed 55 feet to bring Cesare down.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

MONDAY, Dec. 5 — Born today, you have probably known ever since you were a small child just what you wanted to do for your life's work. You have definite talents and abilities that have never been able to be denied. Once you do make up your mind what career you want to follow, nothing short of absolute disaster could keep you from pursuing your course. You take great joy in work for its own sake. Should high success come your way, you will be glad—but it will be gray compared to the gladness of work itself.

A colorful personality makes it impossible for you not to leave an impression wherever you go. Not all of your traits are of the highest caliber—you only human—but all of them are definite and distinctive. Your glances of heart makes you a sought-after personality and your fairness and quickness of mind make you a respected and admired one.

Highly emotional, you are naturally to employ either rationality or physical force as the guidelines of your life. Your activities and your standards are based more on what you feel about things than on what you know about them. Fortunately for you, however, your feelings are usually correct.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Tuesday, Dec. 6
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — Postponing social get-togethers until evening would be a wise move. Use your energy for concentrating on details.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — Join with others in your field for a general discussion of your mutual future. Avoid setting yourself up as an expert.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — Benefits should accrue to all concerned in today's efforts to achieve harmony on the employment scene. Do your part.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21) — The wise Pisces will spend at least part of this day planning for tomorrow's events. Don't be caught short when the time comes.

ARIES (March 22-April 20) — Keep your activities within the framework of a previously set schedule. Avoid giving too much time to minor matters.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21) — A business associate may not prove the best social asset. Take care, therefore, not to mix business and pleasure at this time.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — The Gemini who gets an early start should finish the day ahead of the game. Don't wait for stragglers to catch up with you.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) — Your main concern today should be for the betterment of personal relationships. You can accomplish much through third parties.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — Take care not to give so much attention to details that you forget the overall picture you're attempting to achieve.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — Don't rely on associates to make your decisions for you. Take all the time you need, but don't fail yourself or others.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Don't overtax yourself either physically or mentally. Let minor matters go while you concentrate on what is vital to your career.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Time to put an end to arguments with those near and dear to you. Otherwise you may carry things to an incontrovertible extreme.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — Postponing social get-togethers until evening would be a wise move. Use your energy for concentrating on details.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — Join with others in your field for a general discussion of your mutual future. Avoid setting yourself up as an expert.

Tax Cuts Should Be Made Before Dec. 31

By RAY DE CRANE.
By the end of December all doors will have closed on your opportunity to trim your 1966 income tax.

After Dec. 31, the only thing you can do is to take full advantage of every tax-saving device on a fixed set of figures. So the moves you make in these few days can establish a successful savings pattern before all opportunity is lost.

This opportunity for reducing your yearly tax is available whether you are a low, medium or high bracket taxpayer. These are the three areas to watch carefully — income, exemptions, deductions.

Many people are in a position to control their income in the final month and set the stage themselves for diverting income from one year to the next.

A doctor, dentist, architect, accountant or lawyer, to cite a few groups, can defer income until next year by the expedient of delaying billing to patients or clients. This type of move would be made by one who already has substantial earnings for the year and is fearful of moving into too high a tax bracket with the addition of still more income.

Deferring income is a risk at best. You are gambling on an unknown — what the next 12 months might bring. Furthermore, there is a possibility of a higher tax rate for next year that would minimize any possible gain in a postponement of income. Safest move in this direction is to let it go natural and take the income when it normally comes due.

Time might be better spent establishing definitely your exemptions and credits for dependents.

Do you have a son or daughter who graduated from high school or college last June and then started to work? Perhaps you furnished total support until graduation time. But how will you fare when support is reckoned on the full year's basis?

Remember, unless you furnished the chief support for the full year you can't claim the dependent on your return.

Weigh carefully your contributions toward support as contrasted to the support furnished by your son or daughter. If the amount is fairly equal, perhaps an additional expenditure on a borderline one.

perhaps you are helping to support an aged parent. Again, chief support is required before the dependency credit is allowed. An additional $50 check before year's end might save you money if your claim is now a borderline one.

BRIDGE BY JACOBY

MOREHEAD SHOWS UNUSUAL SQUEEZE

The death of Albert H. Morehead, former bridge editor of the New York Times, is a great loss to bridge. He was a great friend to all the Jacobys and we could write forever about his many good qualities. We will devote only this week's section to a discussion of his great book, "Morehead on Bidding."

In this book Morehead describes modern bidding and gives the play of many interesting hands. Today's hand illustrates that the response of two in a lower suit shows at least 10 or 11 high card points.
